DEVELOPER Wow! What a powerful combo... A sequel to the popular roleplaying game FINAL FANTASY XIII and the RPG Mages of the world "Silent Steps." It's a sequel to the popular roleplaying game Final Fantasy XIII, yet it's a combination of two of the most excellent games, including the Studio Clover anime from the popular Ace of Diamond series! ALSO ON THE GAME CHIPS THANKS! TO TOPIC Tetra Master: Silent Steps Wizards, Tristra Obscura -Tome of the Unknown Steady State -Global Classifier As for any MMORPG when I asked a ton of people to this video series I got asked to do one on Tetra Master: Silent Steps since I've played it for a decent amount of time as a person who had problems with his US account and now play this game. It's more obvious what you can do when you play the game. What is it that makes this game the best RPG? Actually, probably the only quality I can say about this game is that it's easy to understand. The game is made simple, and of course, it has a lot of charm. I really think that it's great that the game has a Japanese cast. Although I can understand the language I feel that the people in the cast are a lot more interesting than the English ones, or at least the English ones are written a little more entertaining and friendly. The story is really good, there are a lot of characters and you can see that this game has a lot of fun potential. Also, the game system really works well and according to the developer, the features they use in the game are the same ones. It's a good RPG for the fans of the genre or even for a person who prefers fantasy to other genres. However, one drawback of this game is that it doesn't support micro transactions. The game has some problems in both menus and also in the battle system. The game also has a very complicated and difficult character creation process. However, it's still a great game and I highly recommend it to those who like fantasy and roleplaying games, but maybe this is too easy for those who like this genre. FUNNY FUN The game is basically Final Fantasy XIII with a few differences, so not a huge loss. It's good

Content ELDEN RING Story: Game Content Hero My name is Eudora Hayworth, an apprentice Seeker of the Elden Ring, and I am rising in a humble village called Arbury. Yet all I do now is to rest and enjoy the simple life, leaving my destiny to the fate of the Elden Ring. One day, I was ordered to accompany a small party of Seekers on a mission to investigate a newly discovered source of an Elden ring. We encounter on our way a man named Armaments, who tried to attack us with his own party. We followed him and, after a long journey, we came across the man and his two partners who were sealed in a powerful fortress. This fortress is located in the Lands Between and has as its lord a man named Niall. Niall was sealed for his crimes against the realm by an ancient spell, and he now uses his skills and talismans to raise a massive demon army that he has been developing for decades now. His plan is to conquer the realms of the various Elven nations, and then use the united Elden Ring power to challenge the Elden King. Only a God can break the spell and free Niall, so he send the three partners into an alternate reality, called the Amulet, with the Demon Army to give them strength. When I went to that world, I found that I was the only Seeker left in our world, with no clue why I could not return home. I kept on exploring but I ran into the man who transported me, and I accompanied him. He told me to steal the Amulet, but I could not do it, as I did not know the proper ritual for it. Instead, I gained the Amulet and I left the Amulet, returned to the new world, and met the man who brought me there. I was told by him to retrieve the last piece of the Amulet. I went back to the man and stole the third piece from him. But in the place where the man said the piece was, there was a dark alley, where a man came out and stabbed me with a blade. I fell into the darkness and I woke up in a jail cell. My blade was there, and I also had the third piece of the Amulet. The Lord said that the fourth piece of the Amulet was in the hands of an Elden Lord named Erram, who lives in the Auroa kingdom of the Lands Between. Er
