However, as we're working to update the site to be in line with the new version, it will likely be a while before the old interface is completely phased out. In the meantime, users can still browse the site using the old interface. Since the new version will be released in the coming months, it's worth it to invest the time to learn the new interface. However, if you're really attached to the old UI, there are some other interfaces that we'd like to share. e3d0a04c9c
